

Creating positive links with agencies

Groups can form positive links with Risk Management Authorities (RMA) and organisations and work in partnership with them.

Awareness

Communities are more resilient working together and will have a greater awareness of local issues.

Flood Planning

Community flood plans can set out the actions to be taken before, during and after a flood.

Influencing decision makers

Voicing concerns as a group may have a greater influence on decision makers than those voicing concerns alone.

COMMUNITY FLOOD GROUPS

Utilisation of key skills

Groups can utilise the skills and resources which members may have to offer in an emergency.

Strengthens overall community resilience

Groups may focus on other possible emergencies or weather events which can impact the community.

Funding

Constituted groups can access funding which may be available for equipment to help with community resilience.

Valuable local flood knowledge

Communities can provide valuable local flood knowledge that is essential for future flood risk management.
